The Honorable Jeffrey S. White

Under Northern District Civil Local Rule, when a motion for administrative relief is filed, an opposition or statement of non-opposition is due no later than four days after the motion is filed. At that time, the administrative motion is ripe. If the parties proceed by way of an administrative motion such as this, even if it is represented that the other side does not oppose the request, the Court shall not act upon the motion until after the time for filing an opposition has passed.
